Criminal Appeal No.79(S) of 1992:

The facts ofthe appeal, briefly stated, are that on 8-6-1990 a case under Article 11 of the Prohibition Order was registered against Mian Aftab Saigal with the allegations that on 8-6-1990, while the Inspector/S.H.O. Police Station Gulberg was present in the Main Market, Gulberg with his staff on patrol duty, he saw Mian Aftab Saigal, appellant near the Punjab Tikka Shop making Ghul Ghopara. On checking, smell of Alcohol was suspected to be coming out from his mouth. He was, therefore, taken by the- Police to the Police dispensary for the medical check-up where the doctor examined him and issued the Medico Legal Report containing the opinion bf suspected intoxication. After usual investigation, challan was submitted before the Court of Magistrate who on 8-9-1990 framed formal charge under Article 11 of the Prohibition Order against him to which he did not plead guilty. The prosecution produced Dr. Saqib Naeem P.W.I who proved the Medico Legal Report. He was cross-examined in detail and in view of some of the affirmative replies given by him in cross-examination, an application under section 249-A, Cr.P.C.

was moved by the appellant seeking his acquittal. This application, after hearing the arguments of the prosecution as well as the defence, was accepted by the learned Magistrate and the appellant was acquitted vide order dated 23-9-1990. An appeal (Criminal Appeal No.423/L of 1990) against acquittal was filed by the State before the Federal Shariat Court on 21-11-1990. Another Appeal (Criminal Appeal No.383 of 1991) was filed by the State against this very order of acquittal before the Lahore High Court, Lahore on 20-3-1991. It may be added that the appeal before the Federal Shariat Court was filed by Mr. Muhammad Farooq Bedar showing himself as a Public Prosecutor, statedly under specific direction of the Governor of the Punjab. The appeal filed before the Lahore High Court was, however, withdrawn on 14-5-1991 on the ground that jurisdiction vests with the Federal Shariat Court and an appeal bearing No.423/L of 1990 on the same subject has already been filed which has since been admitted. The appeal was thus disposed of as having been withdrawn. The appeal filed before the learned Federal Shariat Court was heard along with Criminal Revision No.2/L of 1992, filed by Mian Naseem Saigal and Mian Azam Saigal (the two brothers of the appellant on whose instance the case was statedly registered against the appellant), by a Bench of two learned Judges of the Federal Shariat Court and vide judgment dated 30-4-1992 the appeal of the State was accepted, order of acquittal was set aside and the case was sent for retrial to the learned Sessions Judge, Lahore in accordance with law, while the revisions filed by Mian Naseem Saigal and Mian Azam Saigal, the two brothers of the appellant Mian Aftab Saigal, was dismissed in limine treating the same to have been rendered infructuous as the judgment of acquittal was set aside in appeal. Mian Aftab Saigal then assailed the judgment of the Federal Shariat Court by filing a petition for leave to appeal which was granted vide order dated 22-1-1992 noting down, inter alia, the contention "that the acquittal appeal filed by Mr. Muhammad Farooq Bedar who was not a Special Public Prosecutor to file the appeal and that the appeal before the Federal Shariat Court against the acquittal of an accused was not competent". In support of this plea reliance was placed on State v. Muhammad Tariq (PLD 1982 FSC 169):- f appellant in triminai XppealNo.79(S) of .1992 contended that appeal, against order of acqijittk.is competent before the High Court under Article 27(1)rof the. Prohibition:6rder,and not.before the Federal Shariat,(Court as second proviso to., this very Article provides that an appeal' frpm an order under Article. 8 or from, an order under anyother provision, of the Prohibition. Order which imposes a sentence pfimprisonment for a term exceeding, two years shall lie to the Federal Shariat Court. According' to. him, against all the pothor; orders e.g." the order oi acquittal or the order imposing punishment of twolyears or less than two years,. the forum of appealis to be foiind from tiie provisions of Criminal Procedure Code! which provisions, under siib-A.hicie (1) of Article 21 of the Prohibition Order; have been made to apply mutatis mutandis. He, pointed out that this very view has been taken by the learned Federal Shariat Court itself in The State v. - Muhammad Tariq (PLD 1982 FSC 169) as well as by the Lahore High Court in State v. Abdul Majid (1983 PCr.U 1465), Peshawar High Court in The State v. Muhammad Yaqoob (1997 PCr.U 528) and High Court of Sindh in The State through Advocate-General, Sindh and Public Prosecutor v. Shahbaz Khan (1998 PCr.U 1229).

Next it was contended that the State had filed ah appeal in the High Court against the order of acquittal and the withdrawal of the State appeal and having it disposed of as withdrawn vide Order dated 14-5-1991 has rendered the order of acquittal final and as such the Federal Shariat Court could neither entertain the appeal nor interfere in the order of acquittal so attaining finality, by invoking the revisional jurisdiction otherwise vesting in it under Article 203-DD of the Constitution as the said jurisdiction is available only to scrutinize the orders passed by the "Criminal Court" and not the order of the High Court which admittedly does not fall within the connotation of the term "Criminal Court". .

Learned counsel further contended that Mr.Muhammad Farooq Bedar filed the appeal describing himself as a Public Prbsecutor statedly under some direction of the Governor without placing on record either copy of said direction of the Governor or a copy of any notification whereby he had been appointed as a Public Prosecutor. In support of this plea, reliance was placed on Kadir Bux and others v. The Crown PLD 1955 Federal Court 79, wherein Advocate-General who was not a Public Prosecutor within the meaning of section 492, Cr.P.C. was held not competent to file appeal against acquittal; and State through Advocate-General, Sindh v. Hanif Ahmed and others 1994 SCMR 749 wherein appeal filed by an Assistant Advocate-General was held to have been filed by an incompetent person. .

Learned counsel further contended that order of acquittal is not interfered with even if a different view can possibly be taken from the facts established on record. He in support of this contention referred to Ghulam, Sikandar and another v. Mamaraz Khan and others PLD 1985 SC 11, Sikandar Hayat v. Muhammad Nawaz and, 3 others 1995 SCMR 616, Imran Hussain v.

Amar Arshad and 2 others 1997* SCMR 438 and Haji Rab Nawaz v. Sikandar Zulqarnain and 7 others 1998 SCMR 25, wherein principles for interference in order of acquittal have been settled.

Learned counsel with regard to the observations of the learned Judge to the effect that the Court cannot close the mouth of the prosecution and assess evidence of witnesses without recording their evidence referred to the words "at any stage" appearing in section 249-A, Cr.P.C. and pointed out that it is not necessary to record entire evidence, as use of the expression "at any stage" of the case is indicative enough of the intention that any such stage could be the very initial stage, after taking cognizance or it could be a middle stage after recording, some proceedings and/or even, it could be later stage as well. Reliance was placed on State through Secretary, 'Ministry of Interior v. Shiq Ali Bhutto 1993 SCMR 523. Learned counsel also took;uis through the statement of the doctor and the other material on record to show that CSVEN. on merits remand of the case for recording of the statement of the remaining witnesses was not legally called for as that would not have made any difference as no conviction could possibly be obtained by prosecution iv - i '

- "v Mr. ' Mohammad Mu Advocate Learned counsel; for the appellant in Criminal Appeal No.78(S) of 1992 adopted the arguments of Raja Miihamrnad AnWar, learned "co'unsdr',f9f. the appellant in Criminal .Appeal No.79(S) of 1992. Even on merits of this case he argued that the recording of. the evidence of D. S.P.1:Saeed Khan, the only remaining .witness,, would not .have been of any benefit to the prosecution as he could, not have possibly; fulfilled the lacunas, the;discrepancies and the contradictions already existing, and apparent ' from the record.

Mr- :Abid Hassan.Minto, Advocate, learned, counsel for respondent No.2 in JCRIMINAL Appeal No.,79(S) of 1992, ;in reply .argued that the trial Court in propriety should, have itself directed the prosecution to produce the report of the. Chemical ..Examiner, as the same . Was"; very important ' .piece of evidence: to establish the,,prosecution case and remand of the case-even for the purpose .was . well justified...He; added-that the Medical Report pertaining to examination of the,accused/appellant,, which was proved by the doctor in< his; evidence; itself contains an . entry that patient gives history that the party has .forcefully, given him, Alcohol,. According, to the learned counsel the doctor's evidence' on record has; been, appraised along with the entries of the Medical .Legal Report and the; Federal Shariat Court was justified in remanding the,case for recording , the . testimony of the remaining four witnesses, three of whom are police witnesses and one is the,public witness. r .

As> regards competence of the appeal filed under Cr.P.C. of 1973 of Mr. Muhammad Farooq-Bedar, - Mr.Abid- Hassan Minto,' contended that he was Additional Advocate-General at that time and 'as "Additional Advocate-General" is. included in; the definition. Of the term " Advocate- General", the Appeal filed by him . was competent and , maintainable and in accordance with the: observations made in the case of Hanif Ahmad (supra). : - ' » : ;j

, The challenge to the competency of the appeal filed by Mr... Farooq Bedar describing "himself as Public Prosecutor by pressing into: service the: aforesaid precedents, cannot succeed, as ' neither' the ' notification' of appointment 'of Mr. Farooq Bedar as Assistant Advocate-General or Additional. Advocate-General, Punjab nor the notification of appointment of Public ' Prosecutor in terms of section 492, Cr.P.C. was produced on record. This very finding was ' NOT*: taken 'before the ' Federal' Shariat Court.' We : in the circumstances, deem it appropriate not to go into this question as the necessary foundational facts have not been established.

Mr. Minto, on the question of interpretation of Article 27 of the Prohibition Order contended that complications and irreconcilable conflict would arise if it is held that appeal against the order of acquittal lies to the High Court as in a case of joint trial where one accused is acquitted while the other accused is convicted and is awarded the imprisonment of more than two years, appeal of the acquitted accused would lie to the High Court while the appeal of the convict would lie to the Federal Shariat Court and this would entail possibility of passing of conflicting decisions. He pointed out that in that situation revisional jurisdiction of either of the Courts would not be exercisable as under Article 203-DD of the Constitution, Federal Shariat Court can examine the legality/propriety of the orders passed by a "Criminal Court" which a High Court is not.

Similarly, the High Court cannot sit in judgment of the orders passed by the Federal Shariat Court as it is not a Court subordinate to the High Court. According to Mr. Minto, second proviso added to Article 27 in the Prohibition Order in the year 1980 by President's Order 5 of 1980 and its further amendment in 1982 by President's Order 6 of 1982 has not made the position clear as to appeal against order of acquittal. He pointed out that the draftsman should have been well advised to follow the phraseology of section 20 of the Offence of Zina (Enforcement of Hudood) Ordinance, 1979.

He further contended that withdrawal of appeal filed before the High Court and its dismissal as withdrawn is of no consequence as firstly the appeal before the High Court was not competent; secondly the disposal of appeal by the High Court was not on merits and thirdly, before withdrawing the said appeal from the High Court, appeal before the Federal Shariat Court had already been filed and was competently pending and that the appeal filed before the High Court was withdrawn on that very account and basis. The plea that order of acquittal had attained finality because of withdrawal of appeal from a Lahore High Court is without merit for the reason that the order of withdrawal was not an order passed on merits and also on account of the finding that we propose to record on the question of maintainability of appeal before the Federal Shariat Court.

Now we take up the main question that is, of interpretation of Article 27 of the Prohibition Order. To this Article second proviso was added vide Presidential Order No.5 of 1980 and Presidential Order No.6 of 1982 then further amended the second proviso. Article 27 of the Prohibition Order as it presently stands reads as under:--

"27. Application of the Code of Criminal Procedure (Act V of 1898):--

(1) Unless otherwise expressly provided in this Order, the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898 (Act V of 1898), hereinafter

, referred to as the said Code, shall apply mutatis mutandis in respect of cases under this Order:

Provided that, if it appears in evidence that the offender has committed a different offence under any other law, he may if the Court is competent, to try that offence and to award punishment therefor be convicted and punished for that offence:

an offence punishable under Article 8 shall be triable by a Court of Session and not by a Magistrate authorised under section 30 of the said Code and, appeal from an order under that Article or from an order under any other provision of this Order which imposes a sentence of imprisonment for a term (exceeding two years shall) lie to the Federal Shariat Court: 7 provided further that a trial by a Court of Session under this Order shall 'ordinarily be . held at the headquarters of the Tehsil in which the offence is alleged to have been committed.

(2) The provisions of the said Code relating to the confirmation of the sentence of death shall" apply, mutatis mutandis to the confirmation of a "sentence under this Order. yv -

' yyyy: y. j:'y'y;yuf.i..y .y ? ,i -j;--jV

The provisions of subsection (3) of section 391 or section 393 of the ,

' said' Code shall apply in' respect of the punishment of whipping awarded

: under this Order; -v y ' y:.

(4) The provision of Chapter XXIX of the said Code shall not apply, in ' respect of the punishment awarded under Article 8.

' s' Learned;counsel for the: parties are in agreement that appeal against an order'passed under Article 8 of the. Prohibition.Order by a Court of Session lies to: the Federal Shariat ;Court :andi.that appeal from , an order under any other Article of the Prohibition Order imposing a sentence of imprisonment for a term exceeding two years also lies : to the Federal Shariat Court. We may note here that Mr. Minto learned counsel for respondent No.2 (Criminal Appeal No.79(S) of 1992) at one stage argued that the words "which imposes a sentence of imprisonment for a term exceeding two years" refer to the Order which means 1 Prohibition Order and do not refer to the order whereby the sentence of more than two years has been awarded. He argued that the word "imposes" should be read as"prescribes" .This argument was, however, not pursued realizing that no Article of the Prohibition Order prescribes the punishment in the. manner mentioned in this proviso. y . y y ' ' The difference is on the question ,whether appeal from an order of acquittal lies to the High Court or to the Federal Shariat Court. The judgments cited in support of the contention that appeal lies to the High Court may now be examined. .

The case of Muhammad Tariq PLD 1982 FSC 169 was relied upon laying particular emphasis at the underlined observation:--

"On the plain language of section 25 (this is a typing mistake as it should be Article 27) produced above it was not possible to extend the jurisdiction of the Court in a case of an appeal against acquittal to consider the question whether in the alternative the accused could be convicted in Ta'zir. This was a matter on which an appeal could be competent under section 417. Cr.P.C. only before the High Court. It is in this light that the Courts have come to the conclusion that if in a case of acquittal under section 8 the evidence as required by section 9 was not forthcoming, it would not have been possible for the Court to interfere with an order of acquittal because of lack of jurisdiction." (Underlining is ours).

It is pertinent to note that these observations have been made with reference to the position obtaining under the proviso added vide Presidential Order No.5 of 1980 which conferred exclusive jurisdiction (a) on the Sessions Court to try all cases filed under Article 8 of the Prohibition Order, and (b) on the Federal Shariat Court to hear the appeals against any order under that Article, and it was further recognized that this was a clear departure from the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure. The observations are, therefore, to be understood with reference to the position obtaining under the proviso as then stood. It is also to be noted that amendment made in this proviso vide Presidential Order No.6 of 1982 was noticed in this judgment in the context whether the amendment introduced was retrospective or prospective and it was held that this amendment is clearly prospective and, therefore, cannot apply to cases which had already been decided much before its enforcement.

Learned Judges of the Federal Shariat Court, observing that the jurisdiction now vests in the Court to hear appeal also against the order of Ta'zir sentences, held the appeal to be incompetent for want of jurisdiction as the amendment made was prospective and, as such, not applicable to cases which had already been decided before its enforcement.

In the case of Abdul Majid 1983 PCr.U 1465 decided by the Lahore High Court the question of competence of appeal before the High Court was not „ examined on merits as on the statement of the Public Prosecutor that the appeal was competent before the High Court, learned Judge observed that "this is the correct legal position". ' .

Next is the case of Muhammad Yaqoob (1997 PCr.U 528) decided by the learned Single Judge of the Peshawar High Court. In this case, after examining the provisions of Article 27 of the Prohibition Order as well as section 20 of the Offence of Zina (Enforcement of Hudood) Ordinance, 1979, it was observed as under:-, t RM "Thus, but for the exception provided . under ;the Aforementioned proviso, appeals against orders passed under the Order shall be . .

regulated by the Criminal Procedure Code and will, therefore, be made ;to forums prescribed; under the: Code. The said proviso has made only .two exceptions whereappeals are tobe ; made , to Courts other than the . ones specified under the Criminal Procedure Code and to in both cases .« . the appeals would lie.tothe*Federal Shariat-Court* Thefirstexception is ' , where the;Offence is tried under Article 8 of the Prohibition Order. and ' V the second where the: sentence imposed by the trial Court exceeds two., years: The result.-is; that appeals,against the ; orders of the trial Court

; V under the order would be regulated by the: provisions ;of the Criminal j Procedure Code: on conviction-sentence imposed does npt exceed two : years or the accused .is acquitted, in casei other than the one tried under , Article 8 of the Order. Appeals against orders of acquittal lie to the ' ; High Court under section 417 . of the Code. As the accused were ' charged under. Article 3/4 of theOrder and Wt under its Article 8;the ? jpreseht appem was conentlyfU& injhe High.Court." ' . J.

; This judgment, was followed by .the High Court of Sindh in The State;1 through Advocate-General, Sindh and Public Prosecutor v.. Shahbaz Khan (1998 PCr. LJ; 1229) . Learned Judges in this case differed with the contrary view taken in Haji Pir Jan v. Muhammad; Yaqoob; and 9:others (1997 .PCr.LJ 1236) by the High :Court ofBalochistan, Quetta. The observations: made by the learned: Judges oftheHigh Court of Sindh read:as under:-' ;

. : 'It is a settled principle of interpretation' that a proviso to a statutory ; provision contains an exception to the general rule. The general rule in j , / the above context is laid down in the main Article 27(1) which stipulates/ that, the 'provisions of the' Criminal Procedure Code , unless'.

otherwise expressly provided shall apply in respect of cases under this, Order.

'This is by its very nature' relating to appeals , contained in Part, Chapter two. commits two kinds; of order to the appellate jurisdiction of the Federal Shariat Court namely ,

(i) all orders relating to Hadd Offence under Article 8 and (ii) orders ' imposing sentence of imprisonment for a term : exceeding two years under other provisions. Appeals against, orders not covered by this'

. proviso could only be preferred before a Forum stipulated under the Code in terms of the main Article 27(1)." ' . , r

It was also observed in this very judgment that "through a subsequent, amendment vide Presidential Order No.6 of 1982 the appellate jurisdiction of the Federal Shariat . Court was extended to cover appeals against convictions entailing punishment of more than two years' imprisonment. The jurisdiction of the Shariat Court was enlarged progressively and even now it is confined to a certain category of cases mentioned in the second proviso. The jurisdiction to hear appeals, against other judgments i.e. convictions entailing less than two years' imprisonment or acquittal must necessarily be covered by the provisions of the Code". ,

The case of Muhammad Yaqoob (supra) decided by the High Court of Balochistan, Quetta pertains to Offences against Property (Enforcement of Hudood) Ordinance, 1979. Provisions of section 24 of this Ordinance are materially the same as those of Article 27 of the Prohibition Order. After examining the provision of section 24 of the Ordinance, following conclusion was recorded:--

"We feel inclined to hold that even for the offences other than those defined and made punishable under the Ordinance or punishable under . any other law for the time being in force within the ambit of the Ordinance, whether it result into conviction of imprisonment for a term exceeding two years or into an order of acquittal passed by a competent Court, appeal would lie to the Federal Shariat Court only due to the jurisdiction having been so conferred to the Federal Shariat Court.

Keeping in view the principles of the interpretation of statutes that it should advance the remedy, to save rather destroy the statute and to , meet with certain contingencies not provided for in the statute; beneficial construction of an enactment is to be made and for the reasons given hereinabove, we are of the considered view that against an order of acquittal for the offence/s tried within the ambit of Ordinance (VI of 1979) appeal shall lie only to the Federal Shariat Court; resultantly the appeal filed in this Court is not maintainable, therefore, is ordered to be returned to the appellant for its presentation to the competent Court if so desired by him.11

We have given serious thought to the submissions of the learned counsel for the parties and have also minutely gone through the aforementioned judgments and the relevant provisions contained in four Hudood Laws i.e. Offence of Zina (Enforcement of Hudood) Ordinance, 1979 (Ordinance VII of 1979), Offence of Qazf (Enforcement of Hadd) Ordinance, 1979 (Ordinance VIII of 1979), the Prohibition Order (President's Order No.4 of 1979) and in the Offences against Property

(Enforcement of Hudood) Ordinance, 1979 (Ordinance VI of 1979). A close study of the history of these four Hudood Laws and the amendments introduced therein from time to time show that when the Prohibition Order as well as Ordinance VI of 1979 relating to Offences against Property were promulgated in 1979, provisions of section 24 of Ordinance VI of 1979 and Article 27 of the Prohibition Order contemplated trial of the offences by ordinary criminal Courts and the appeals to be heard and decided by the forum provided by the Code of Criminal Procedure. Both these provisions provide that unless otherwise provided, the provisions of Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898 shall apply mutatis mutandis in respect of cases under the Ordinance/Order. In 1980 Federal Shariat Court was established and vide Presidential Order No. S. of 1980 second proviso was added to Article 27 of the Prohibition Order (P.O. No. 4 of 1979) and vide Ordinance No. XIX of 1980 second proviso was added in section 24 of Ordinance No. VI of 1979 relating to Offences against Property whereby offences punishable under Article 8 of the Prohibition Order and the offences punishable under section 9 or section 17 of Ordinance No. VI, of 1979 (Offences against Property), were made triable exclusively by a Sessions Court; and - orders passed under the said Article/sections were made appealable before the Federal Shariat Court. Similar amendment was made in section 20 of Ordinance No. VII of 1979 relating to offences of Zina; and in section 17 of Ordinance No. VIII of 1979 relating to offence of Qazf through Ordinance No. XX of 1980 and Ordinance No. XXI of 1980 respectively. Through these amendments, "offences punishable under these Ordinances were made triable by a Court of Session and all appeal from the order of Court of Session was made to lie to the Federal Shariat Court. It may be noted that in the case of offences under the Prohibition Order as well as under Ordinance No. VI of 1979 relating to Offences against Property same method was not adopted providing the mode of trial and the forum of appeal. The distinctive treatment thus made in respect of these two laws manifests the different intention of the law-maker. It is also pertinent to note that despite the fact that Article 3(2) of the Prohibition Order prescribes imprisonment for life or imprisonment which is not less than 2 years and that offender falling under second proviso to Article 4 of the Prohibition Order makes the offender punishable with imprisonment for life or imprisonment which is not less than two years, through latter amendment neither mode of trial nor forum of appeal was specified and the matter was left to be regulated by the provisions of Code of Criminal Procedure and it was left with the prosecution to submit a challan before the Magistrate or before the Court of Session. The second proviso to Article 27 of Prohibition Order and second proviso to section 24 of Ordinance

VI of 1979 were amended vide Presidential Order No. 6 of 1982 and Ordinance No. II of 1982 respectively, whereby the addition made read as under:-

: "or from an order under any other provision of this Order which -imposes a sentence of imprisonment for a term exceeding two years;,"

' The amendment so introduced in the second proviso to Article 27 of the Prohibition Order and section 24 of the Offences against Property Ordinance made the Federal Shariat Court appellate forum against the orders imposing punishment of more than two years' imprisonment.

Legislative history of these enactments; as was rightly pointed out by the learned Judges of High Court of Sindh, Karachi, shows that the jurisdiction of the Federal Shariat Court was enlarged progressively and even now it is confined to a certain category of cases mentioned in the second proviso and that the jurisdiction in other judgments i.e. conviction entailing less than two years' imprisonment or acquittal must necessarily be covered by provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure. They are, however, not right in holding that appeal against any order of acquittal would lie to High Court and not to Federal Shariat Court.

It will be seen that in addition to Article 8 making drinking liable to Hadd punishable with eighty stripes, the Prohibition Order prescribes punishment for manufacture etc. of intoxicants under Article 3, for owning or possessing intoxicants under Article 4 and for drinking liable to Ta'zir under Article 11. The sentence under Article 11 is imprisonment for a term which may extend to 3 years while under Article 3, it may extend to 5 years or in certain cases to imprisonment for life or imprisonment which is not less than 2 years. Likewise under Article 4, it may extend to 2 years and in certain cases punishment may be of imprisonment for life or imprisonment which is not less than 2 years. The Ordinance relating to Offences against Property similarly provides that offences of Haraabah and theft liable to Hadd under sections 9 and 17 are to be tried by Sessions Court while trial of the offence punishable as Ta'zir e.g. offence of theft liable to Ta'zir (sections 13 and 14) punishable as theft under P.P.C., offence of Haraabah liable to Ta'zir punishable as dacoity, robbery, extortion under P.P.C. (section 20) and offence of Rassagiri or Patharidari punishable with 14 years' rigorous imprisonment while attempt to commit any of the offence punishable with 10 years' rigorous imprisonment is left to be regulated by Cr.P.C. Second Schedule to the Code of Criminal Procedure provides that offence of theft punishable with imprisonment of 3 years under section 378 may be tried by a Judicial Magistrate, offence of Robbery and Dacoity is triable by Court of Session and offence of extortion is to be tried by Magistrate of the First Class. So, for the offences which are punishable with 3 years imprisonment, and the punishment awarded is 2 years or less, the appeal lies to Court of Sessions vide section 408, Cr.P.C. and if the punishment for any of the other offences mentioned in the Prohibition Order of Ordinance No. VI of 1979 awarded exceeds two years' imprisonment, the appeal would lie to Federal Shariat Court vide Article 27 of the Prohibition Order or section 24 of Ordinance VI of 1979. In such a case trial may have been held by a Judicial Magistrate with Section 30 powers or a Court of Session. A Judicial Magistrate First Class who has the power under section 32, Cr.P.C. to pass sentence of imprisonment for term not exceeding 3 years can only try the offence which is punishable for two years only and for such trials the appellate forum will be Court of Session while in all other cases irrespective of the fact that trial is held by Judicial Magistrate with or without Section 30 powers or Court of Session, the appellate forum is Federal Shariat Court. Hence even by following the provisions of Code of Criminal Procedure the appellate forum for cases of imprisonment for a term exceeding two years is Federal Shariat Court. Thus what is to be seen is the Court which can hold the trial so as to competently impose the prescribed imprisonment and the forum of appeal is also to be determined with reference to the Court which held the trial and passed the order of acquittal or conviction. The appeal would lie to the Court before Which order : of conviction is challenged. In this way conflict in judgments would not occur,

" which otherwise will arise if it is held that appeal" against order of acquittal in trial held by Magistrate-First* Class or Magistrate with Section 30 powers or by Court of Session, for cases.. for offences punishable with term exceeding two years' imprisonment would lie to High Court while the appeal against order of conviction awarding sentence of a term for more than 2 years in same trial -or any trial would lie to Federal Shariat Court, High Court of Balochistan in the case of Ullah v. State,¹ with a view to avoid such an incongruous situation held that appeal against order of acquittal is not competent before High Court above reflects the correct position obtaining in law! Learned Judges of the High Court of Sindh though rightly traced the legislative history and held that

: Procedure applicable but did not arrive at the correct conclusion as the position obtaining under the Code of Criminal Procedure read with the provisions of Article 27 of the order and section 24 of the Ordinance relating to Offences against Property was not traced, it is Logical conclusion. , , v I;

. , Moreover, irreconcilable PMERS' FROM TWO jurisdictions i.e. High Court and -Federal SHARIAT Court would be avoided, if the Federal Shariat Court is taken as an appellate forum for such orders passed by the competent trial Court as pointed out above; both for the order of acquittal or conviction." The fact that appeal against order of conviction passed by the trial Court competent to impose and has imposed sentence of - imprisonment of two years or less lies to the Sessions Court poses no difficulty as the order passed in appeal by the Sessions Court is revisable by the Federal Shariat Court.

But the order of acquittal passed by the trial Court; competent to pass sentence of 3 years or more and has imposed sentence of imprisonment for a period exceeding two years can be challenged before the Federal Shariat Court as admittedly it is the Court of appeal for such orders; if

- Reference at, this stage; in Qadri v. Muhammad Riaz-Ahmed;

- Ajmal Hussain and others (JLD 1983 SC 233) wherein: Shariat Appellate Bench 1 held the appeal against acquittal filed before the Federal Shariat Court -as incompetent. This case was a challenge under, sections 474 of the Offence of Zina (Enforcement of Hudood) Ordinance, 1979. Learned Additional Sessions Judge had accepted the application under section 265 of Cr.P.C. and had acquitted the accused observing that there was no probability of the accused being convicted in the case. Dissatisfied with the order, complainant had filed an appeal, under, section 20 of the Offence of Zina (Enforcement of Hudood) Ordinance, 1979 before the Federal Shariat Court, which was.

dismissed and thereafter a petition for leave to appeal was, taken, to the Shariat Appellate-Bench*. < Relevant observations recorded by the Shariat Appellate Bench read as under:-

/ 1 "According to section 20 of the Ordinance, the provisions of the Criminal Procedure Code apply mutatis mutandis in respect of a case under the said Ordinance. Under section 417, Cr.P.C., which deals with the appeals in case of acquittal, it is provided in subsection (1)

thereof that 'the Provincial Government may, in any case, direct the Public Prosecutor to present an appeal to the High Court from an original or appellate order of acquittal passed by any Court other than a High Court.' In this case, no such direction was issued by the Provincial Government. It is true that under subsection (2) of section 417, Cr.P.C. the complainant can file an appeal, if the High Court (which in the context would mean the Federal Shariat Court) grants special leave to appeal, but this is possible only in those cases where the order of acquittal is passed in any case instituted upon a complaint, which is not the case here. The view expressed in Muhammad Ramzan (PLD 1982 FSC 11), that a complainant feeling aggrieved by an order of a Court of Session can file an appeal before the Federal Shariat Court under, section 20 of the Ordinance is not correct as it has been taken by overlooking the provisions of section 20 of the Ordinance which makes the Criminal Procedure Code including obviously section 417 thereof, apply mutatis mutandis in respect of cases void. Therefore the appeal of the petitioner hereinbefore the Federal Shariat Court was incompetent."

It will be seen that the view expressed by the Federal Shariat Court in the case of Muhammad Hussain v. Muhammad Ramzan (PLD 1982 FSC 11) that an aggrieved complainant can file an appeal before the Federal Shariat Court was held not correct as it overlooked the provisions of section 20 of the Offence of Zina (Enforcement of Hudood) Ordinance, 1979 which makes the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, including section 417, applicable mutatis mutandis, in respect of the cases under the Offence of Zina (Enforcement of Hudood) Ordinance, 1979. It was, however, conceded that the complainant can file an appeal if the High Court, which in the context would mean the Federal Shariat Court, grants leave to appeal but this could be done only in those cases where the order of acquittal was passed in a case initiated upon a complaint. It, therefore, follows that had the case been a case initiated upon a complaint, the acquittal appeal with the leave of the Federal Shariat Court would have been competent. This was the position of law then obtaining, before addition of subsection (2A) to section 417, Cr.P.C. vide Act XX of 1994. This subsection (2A) provides that "a person aggrieved by the order of acquittal passed by any Court other than a High Court, may, within thirty days, file an appeal against such order". It is also to be noted that the word "Court" used in section 417, Cr.P.C. under which the acquittal appeal lies had been read in this judgment as "Federal Shariat Court", ' . '

It is also to be borne in mind that the provisions of sub-Article (I) of Article 27 of the Prohibition Order which provides that the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898 shall apply mutatis mutandis, poses no

'difficulty in preferring the forenoted interrelation.1 AS per dictionary meaning contained in Chamber's 20th Century: Dictionary "mutatis mutandis" means "with necessary 'changes'"1. Black's Law Dictionary defines the expression 'mutatis mutandis' as follows: "y,; . ""*

There will be no conflict, of judgments of the two jurisdictions, as Federal Shariat Court, will be exercising the jurisdiction vesting in it under the 1 Hudood Laws well as under the Constitution of Pakistan. The net result of the" above discussion, is that the appeals filed before the Federal Shariat Court against the order of acquittal were competent; .r ' .

' "Coming to the merits of the order of acquittal, we are of the considered view that these orders could not be set aside by the Federal Shariat Court in view of the material on record and the criteria laid down by the superior Courts : in judgments for 'setting aside the acquittal'; The cases cited in this respect by the learned counsel for the appellants, which have been noted above, may be 'referred to. The test laid down by the Supreme Court in Ghulain. Sikandar and : Arioother v. Mamaraz Khan 'and others (PLD 1985 SC 11) is that "The Court would not interfere with acquittal merely because on reappraisal of the evidence if comes to the conclusion different from that of the Court acquitting the accused provided, both the conclusions are reasonably possible. If, however, the conclusion reached by that Court was such that no reasonable person would conceivably reach the same and was; impossible then the Court would, interfere in exceptional, cases on overwhelming proof resulting in conclusive and irresistible, conclusion- and that too with a view only to avoid grave miscarriage of justice and for no other purpose.

The important test visualised in these cases is that the finding sought to be interfered with, after scrutiny under the foregoing searching light, should be found wholly artificial, shocking and ridiculous". This view has been reiterated and affirmed by the Supreme Court in various decisions delivered thereafter. The superior Court thus interferes, in order of acquittal 'on overwhelming proof resulting in conclusive and irresistible different conclusion, that conclusion recorded by the Court below was such that no reasonable person would conceivably reach the same; and that too with a view only to avoid grave miscarriage of justice.

Learned counsel for the appellants were also right in pressing into service the principle settled by the Supreme Court in its judgments that by enacting sections 249-A and 265-K, Cr.P.C., the Legislature in its wisdom did not leave the question of recording of the evidence as a condition before taking action under either of the provisions. The use of the expression "at any stage of the case" is indicative enough of the intention, that any such stage could be the very initial stage, after taking cognizance, or it could be a middle stage after recording some proceedings and/or even, it could be later stage as well. See: J State through Secretary, Ministry of Interior v. Ashiq Ali Bhutto (1993 SCMR

Though in the case of Mian Aftab Saigal (Criminal Appeal 79(S) of 1992) only the evidence of doctor had been recorded and police witnesses and the witnesses from the public were yet to be examined but seeing the prosecution case itself, the recording of the statements of the police witnesses and even one witness from the public would not have made any difference. Moreover, at the time when the Federal Shariat Court intervened, the statement of Maqbool Ilahi, the only witness from the public was also available. In the said statement, Maqbool Ilahi had denied any knowledge of the occurrence, the subject-matter of the present case. It was because of this situation prevailing in the case that Mr. Abid Hassan Minto did not seriously challenge the acquittal on merits.

. Dr. Saqib Naseem P.W.I., in his statement in the Medico Legal Report * had noted the following features:-

In these circumstances , production of Maqbool-Ilatu,. the ; witness frorii public is of no avail, as he during the pendency of the case had appeared in another case and had admitted that he . was not a party to the raiding team of the police in .the said case and that,he was not present at the spot on that day and in fact .he was not present on the spot then. He had stated that if. the police had, written, any statement in his name, they had writteri iton their,, own and that he had not given any. statement to the police nv the case of taking of liquor registered against Mian Aftab SaigalV This statement of;' Maqbool Ilahi was , unfortunately not taken notice of by the learned Judges'of- lhe.,Federal;Sh'Miat-.

; Court while passing the impugned judgment. Had the facts rioted above been .noticed, learned Judges of the Federal Shariat Court would have, obviously come to the conclusion that recording of the statements of: the remaining witnesses in the circumstances would not have improved the prosecution case in any manner and, in the circumstances, no useful purpose would be served by directing retrial after setting aside acquittal.

, Same is the situation in the case of Muhammad Sharif. In this case, before ordering acquittal, learned Magistrate had examined five witnesses.

Only one witness, Saeed Khan, D.S.P. remained to be examined. The alleged recovery of narcotics was witnessed by three witnesses namely, Saeed Khan, D.S.P., Ahmad Din P.W.3 and Bashir Ahmad P.W.4. Bashir Ahmad P.W.4 resiled from his statement and was cross-examined by the prosecution but nothing favourable to the prosecution could be obtained from him. Ahmad Din P.W.3 had sworn affidavit on 21-6-1989 to the effect that neither he participated in the raid nor any recovery was effected in his presence. During trial in his statement, though he denied the contents of the affidavit but did not deny his signatures as well as the correctness of the National Identity Card number entered in the said affidavit. He added that on the said date some persons came , to his house and got his signatures on the stamp paper by exerting pressure. He, however, admitted that he had not lodged any, complaint with any one with regard to the obtaining of the said affidavit under force from him.'

This witness further admitted that 2 criminal cases; one for gambling and the other under section 307, P.P.C. stand registered against him and that he is real brother of Jeeroo who is absconder in many criminal cases. He further admitted that the Inspector Police is known to him and on account of that acquaintance he was included in the raiding party. Learned Magistrate further noted the contradictions appearing in his statement and then in these circumstances came to the conclusion that the evidence of the D.S.P. who was the Investigating Officer would not make any difference.

In addition to all these weaknesses of the prosecution case, Muhammad Akram, . A.S.I. who was not cited as a witness, got the docket of 15 parcels prepared from the Excise Office on 19-3-1989 and delivered these parcels on 20-3-1989 in the office of the Chemical Examiner as is apparent from the entries appearing in the report of the Chemical Examiner. .

As against above, Allah Din, Constable P.W. deposed that Saeed Khan, D.S.P. delivered him the parcels containing samples on 12-3-1989 which he delivered on 20-3-1989 to Muhammad Akram, A.S.I., while on 19-3-1989 these parcels containing samples were with Allah Din, Constable P.W. so, if on . 19-3-1989 these parcels containing samples were with Allah Din, Constable P.W., then how Muhammad Akram, A.S.I. one day earlier on 19-3-1989, got the docket prepared from the Excise Office. Moreover, it is not explained as to how from 12-3-1989 to 20-3-1989 these parcels remained in his possession and why. these were not; deposited in the Malkhana in time. To crown all this, there is statement of Muhammad Munir Pj.W.5 which knocks but the prosecution case completely. He deposed that; he had rented out the house in question situated in Nizam Pura; to ,one Haji Dilawar who is residing there with his children and that this house, has two, floors,' and upper floor is on rent while the ground floor is vacant. He added that in the month of March, 1989, Haji Dilawar lived there. . .

, He further stated that Haji.....Dilawar is not father-in-law of Shaman > accused/absconder; that he had not seen Shaman absconder till date there.-He added that he had not rented out this house either to Muhammad Sharif accused, or to his sons; nor any recovery was effected from the said home and the fact "bf!"

. the matter is that at the time of alleged recovery, the lower portion of the house; was vacant and the upper portion was under rent with Haji Dilawar. ' ' 1

V It is pertinent to note, that according to, prosecution the house, from -,

-where-. recovery was effected, viz. a single storey house.. The aforesaid witness (Muhammad Munir. P.W..5,) was produced by the prosecution to, prove rats occupation, by the accused but; the said witness completely belies the said version of the prosecution: Despite this, the prosecution did not declare the said witness, as hostile. and also did not cross-examine him..'; r.

. ; TKDse reasons, which appear to be weighty were, not even noticed by the learned Judges of the Federal Shariat Court while setting aside the orders of acquittal which are based on the ground. That the Court cannot close the mouth of the prosecution and assess the evidence of witnesses without recording their evidence: This criticism, in the circumstances of the case, is not valid. What has to be seen is that whether even if the statement of the remaining witnesses, as is alleged by the prosecution, is taken into consideration, can be, urged with success, that the said evidence, in the context of the other evidence already on record would have improved the case of the prosecution, if this answer is, in the negative, the recording of the statement of such witnesses would result into wastage of public time for no benefit to the prosecution. Both were, as such, the cases where the order of acquittal merited not to be interfered with.

For the reasons given, above, both the appeals are accepted, the impugned judgments of the Federal Shariat Court are set aside, and orders of acquittal of the appellants are restored, accordingly.

JUSTICE WAJIHUDDIN AHMED (MEMBER).-Having had the privilege of going through the proposed judgment of my learned brother Khalil-ur-Rehman, J., I agree that Criminal Appeal No.78(S) of 1992 be allowed but respectfully disagree that Criminal Appeal No.79(S) of 1992 be also allowed or the order of remand returned by the Federal Shariat Court (F.S.C.) be set aside. I would accordingly proceed to record my reasons for so doing. . .

My learned brother, also the Chairman of this Shariat Appellate Bench, has correctly highlighted the legislative history behind the relevant amendments whereby appellate jurisdiction was conferred on the F.S.C. in prohibition matters. The Shariah legislations on the subject are the Prohibition (Enforcement of Hadd) Order 4 of-1979, Offences Against Property (Enforcement of Hudood) Ordinance, VI of 1979, the Offence of Zina (Enforcement of Hudood) Ordinance, VII of 1979 and the Offence of Qazf (Enforcement of Hadd) Ordinance, VIII of 1979.

Originally the appellate jurisdictions in the foregoing Hudood matters vested in the ordinary Courts of Criminal jurisdiction but the F.S.C. having (initially) been established through President's Order No.5 of 1980, occasion arose to introduce such Court as an appellate forum in the Hudood matters under discussion. Necessary amendments, therefore, were made in sections 27, 24, 20 and 17 respectively in the four legislations above referred. Since, for our purposes, it is the Prohibition Order, which is material, I would once again reproduce the amended version of Article 27 therein where the second proviso to clause 27(1) was inserted through the Prohibition (Enforcement of Hadd) (Amendment) Order, 1980 (P.O. No.5 of 1980) wherein the words "or from an order under any other provision of this Order which imposes a sentence of imprisonment for a term exceeding two years" were added by a similar amending Order viz. P.O. 6 of 1982. The amended version of Article 27 ibid. is as below:-

27. Application of the Code of Criminal Procedure. 1898.-(1) Unless otherwise expressly provided in this Order, the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, hereinafter referred to as the said

Code, shall apply mutatis mutandis, in respect of cases under this Order: ; ,--/

. It is correct that normally a proviso operates as an exception to the rule in a main provision but such is not an inflexible legislative practice.

There are occasions, as apparent in this instance, where a proviso is introduced not merely as an exception to the main provision but as one which controls such a provision. The present case is an example in point. True it is that the language used is somewhat -unhappy but the object achieved is the same, as pointed out in the main judgment and as held in Muhammad Riaz Ahmed v. Ajmal Hussain (PLD 1983 SC 233) viz.

the expression "High Court" as accruing in the Criminal Procedure Code, including section 417 thereof (acquittal appeals), would mutatis mutandis (after the amendment) mean and signify the Federal Shariat Court. However, while the main judgment has distinguished Re: Muhammad Riaz Ahmed (supra) in the context of overruling Muhammad Hussain v. Muhammad Ramzan (PLD 1982 FSC 11) on the ground that after the introduction of section 417(2A), Cr.P.C., the question is not relevant, I am, because of the existence of other similar statutory dispensations, constrained, respectfully, to point out that Muhammad Hussain's case was decided independently of section 417, Cr.P.C., and upon the general conferment of jurisdiction on the FSC to hear appeals "from an order of the Court of Session" per the amended second proviso to section 20 of the Zina Ordinance. Muhammad Hussain's case, I venture to think was, therefore, correctly decided. 1 ,

A fuller discussion on the point of substitution of a High Court by the Federal Shariat Court is available in the main judgment and the grounds already covered need not be retraced. However, on my part, I am inclined to point out that' since the; original =text, of clause (2) in : Article 27 (reproduced) has been continuing- there -seems to have occurred1 an automatic"substitution -,of the words "High Court" in Chapter/XXVII of 'the -Criminal Procedure'Code by .the equivalent of- Federal Shariat-; eburtiThe position'similar, in. all the'four Hudood -laws and subsection (2) of sections 24, 20 and 17 are to like effect. Thus, at the:

: time of the original,promulgation such Article (27) indicated that the provisions relating to confirmation of sentences of death would be,, invokable mutatis mutandis before the High Courts where such confimatibffreferericeswefe to lie/ Following upon the insertion of the second proviso to clause (1) in'such Article , (subsection (1) in- the other three laws) that would be longer be the case because just as m;appealr,would,lie.tb. the Federal Shariat Court,against a sentence of . death, likewise a- reference would.also.be attracted in the same jurisdiction. , ingredient The doctor confirmed that the person, who, generally takes such medicines, his mouth on smelling gives, the puffs of alcohol and;

while taking his blood, the alcohol is detected: from his " blood.

THE DIRECTOR is evidence sufficient to acquit the accused under section, 249A & 37C, and no objection has been raised by the;

; proserltv-bulbe' futile, of the time, to summon the remaining

, officials, witnesses as there is no other public witness from the locality.

The accused is acquitted under section 249-A, Cr.P.C. of the offence

. . under section 11/4779 (PEHO). "

In view of the pleas noted above, and without any further evidence whatsoever, the learned Magistrate could hardly have come to the conclusion reproduced herein.

It would appear that P.W. 1, the doctor, who examined the accused, was evidently supporting the accused because he had not merely recorded findings, adverse to the accused at serial Nos. 1 and 8, as maintained by him in Court, namely:-

Smell of alcohol was coming from breath.

(8) : Appearance revealed that the patient had taken an intoxicant," but also at Serial Nos. 2 and 4 viz:-

Eyes were red; .

(4) Face was red and tongue was dry." ' r

It is also significant that the Chemical Examiner's Report could be easily sent for by the Magistrate but he thought fit to proceed to acquit the accused under section 249-A, Cr.P.C.

- By unanimous view Criminal Appeal No.78(S) of 1992:andby majority view Criminal, AppeabNo.79(S) of. 1992 both are accepted.' The/impugned judgments of the Federal Shariat Court are set aside and orders of acquittal of the appellants are restored. -0. - v ' v;. A ; .
